SPECIAL MEETINGS AND/OR EVENTS

CIPR PROGRAM: Rising Health Care Costs, Key Drivers and Potential Solutions

Please plan to join the NAIC Center for Insurance Policy and Research (CIPR) for its upcoming fall program, “Rising Health Care Costs, Key Drivers and Potential Solutions” The program is tentatively scheduled for 3:00 – 5:00 p.m., Saturday, Nov. 17, followed immediately by a reception.

With health care expenditures in the U.S. growing at a faster rate than the country’s economy, impacting the finances of the nation, as well as those of households, it is critical to examine the factors driving this rise in costs. Of particular importance is the study of utilization of services and unit prices as the two components of health care spending in order to better guide effective reform efforts.
This program will showcase a panel of distinguished health care experts and thought leaders from academia, the industry and the regulatory community. The program will start with a presentation on the current state of U.S. health care, followed by a panel discussion on the key factors driving U.S. health care costs at levels unsustainable in the long run and explore solutions for achieving improved outcomes, quality of care and cost management.
