NAIC 2021 Fall National Meeting

Throughout its 150 years of existence, the NAIC has faced numerous unexpected events that have tested the strength of the state-based insurance regulatory system. COVID-19 and the racial unrest that transpired in 2020 and 2021 are the latest examples of these and certainly not to be the last.

During this session we will explore what has served the NAIC and the state-based insurance regulatory system well in such significant unanticipated events (recent and historical), as well as highlight some key lessons learned. More importantly though, we will also aim to highlight where U.S. insurance regulation has an opportunity to evolve within and beyond its core pillars of firm solvency and consumer protection to better anticipate and respond to yet-to-be-determined future risks stemming from a dynamic industry, as well as ever-present external factors. Key components of this evolution to be examined will include: data and analyses; regulatory resources and coordination; and policy intervention.
